A shobo is a weapon, similar to the Emeici of China, which was used by the ninja of Japan for striking pressure points on an opponent. It was a piece of wood that was gripped by the wielder and was hung by a ring worn on the middle finger. Some versions were rings with a wooden peg attached on top.

A portable source of light probably started with a cave man carrying a burning stick of wood. There have been many portable light sources based on burning something. Once the dry cell battery became available flashlights became more popular than they were when a lead acid or other wet battery was needed.
